We are living in the era of Automation and Artificial Intelligence. But it is my firm belief that the creator will always be greater than the creature, and hence there is no chance of things going out of hand. Excel Institutions have reached a level of growth where the system of operation has become self-sustainable. But here again, everyone has got to play his or her part to create an ambient where things will take place for the betterment of all – especially the students, and their parents as stakeholders – who expect our institutions to deliver the goods in the best way possible.

It is my ardent wish that each and every faculty member realize the importance of the role he or she has to play to make the students shine in their chosen area of study. A mantra for success and satisfaction in any educative endeavour is to believe that the time and energy spent on the empowerment and betterment of any student will bear fruit, for certain. I am speaking from my experience and those in the teaching fraternity can ensure the validity of my words from their seniors. If a good student can make a good teacher, a good professor can make several good leaders.

– Prof. A.K. Natesan
